TODAY'S PROGRAM Isaac Erbacher (right) United Nations Youth Pacific Project
Impromptu speakers: Sue Hartwig, Clare Lawlor (below), Francis Elliott-Rudder

Deidre Tome introduced Isaac, a Year 12 student at Koorungal High School, who has received financial support from the club to participate in the Project.

Through a two-stage process of written applications and Skype interviews, twelve students in Years 10-12 from all over Australia were selected from 250 hopefuls. During the July school holidays, Isaac will be travelling to Timor Leste to teach English, engage in building projects and meet with government and community leaders in what promises to be a wonderful cultural experience.

Isaac expressed his appreciation to Sunrise for our support and assured us he will return to report on his experiences later in the year.

Sue McAlpin (left, with Dennis Blackett) gave a short report on her trip to the Antarctica via Chile and Argentina. She was particularly struck by the inequality in living conditions in the larger cities, and whale watching in the Antarctic. On her visit to the Falklands, she learned more of the military costs and loss of life during the war between Britain and Argentina, and enjoyed meeting the locals who guided them to see the wildlife, namely elephant seals and penguins.

Clare Lawlor and Francis Elliott-Rudder (right) each spoke about Rotaract, for adults 18-30 years of age. They meet every second Monday, with the first monthly meeting at CSU with a guest speaker and the second at one of the local taverns. They are targeting their fund-raising at the revamping of Rotaract Park in Koorungal Road, hopefully with Wagga City Council support. While only a small group of 8 members, they intend to raise their public profile with CSU and the Wagga community, and asked Sunrise to promote membership in our own circles.

A guy gets a new dog, a nice Jewish dog. He names the dog Einstein and trains Einstein to do a couple of tricks. He can't wait to show Einstein off to his neighbor. A few weeks later when the neighbor finally comes over, the guy calls Einstein into the house, bragging about how smart he is. The dog quickly comes running and stands looking up at his master, tail wagging excitedly, mouth open, tongue hanging out, eyes bright with anticipation. The guy points to the newspaper on the couch and commands "Fetch!" Immediately, the dog climbs onto the couch and sits, his tail wagging furiously. Then all of a sudden, he stops. His doggie smile disappears. He starts to frown and puts on a sour face. Looking up at his master, he whines, "You think this is easy, wagging my tail all the time? Oy vey ... And you think it's easy eating that junk that you call designer dog food? Forget it ... it's too salty and it gives me gas. It's disgusting I tell you!"The neighbor is absolutely amazed ... stunned. In astonishment, he says, "I can't believe it. Einstein can speak. Your dog actually talks. You asked him to fetch the newspaper and he is sitting on the sofa talking to us." "I know, I know," says the dog owner. "He's not yet fully trained. He thought I said kvetch."

There was a man who couldn't stand his wife's cat. So, one day, he decided to get rid of him by dumping him a long way away from the house.

He put the cat in the car and drove about 20 blocks away, then he left him at the park. But when he got home, the cat was there as if nothing had happened.

The next day he decided to take the cat somewhere further away, about 50 blocks. He put him out of the car and drove home. And again, the cat was there waiting for him. 'This is impossible,' said the man to himself. 'tomorrow I'll make sure he can't come back!'

The next day he puts the cat in the car and he drives around, taking turn after turn – right, left, right, right and so on. Eventually, after about an hour of driving, he finally lets the cat out and drives home.

A few hours later, the phone rings at his house and his wife answers it. It's the husband, and he asks: "Is the cat there?" "Why, yes." says the wife, "he's been here quite a while, where are you?"

"Please put him on the phone, I'm lost and I need directions."

The children were lined up in the cafeteria of a Catholic elementary school for lunch. At the head of the table was a large pile of apples.. The nun made a note, and posted on the apple tray: 'Take only ONE . God is watching.'
Moving further along the lunch line, at the other end of the table was a large pile of chocolate chip cookies. A child had written a note, 'Take all you want. God is watching the apples'.
